

Renewable energy: investment opportunity of the 21st century

Renewable energy is a growth market with enormous potential. Nevertheless, investors have so far been hesitant to invest in renewable energy. A missed opportunity, we feel. Renewable energy is already a promising investment opportunity, perhaps even one of the most promising of the 21st century.

Through our contacts both (i) in the Dutch (renewable) energy sector and (ii) in the sector specialised in business consultancy, we can assist you in finding investment opportunities. We can introduce your clients to target companies and facilitate the realisation of different kinds of possible transactions. Faasen & Partners is an independent Dutch law firm with a practice directed at medium sized and large companies, governmental agencies and financial markets participants. Our firm focuses on business advisory and transaction management. Faasen & Partners is recognized as a specialized firm in the Dutch legal market. Our lawyers who are specialized in energy law have the relevant experience required to offer sound business solutions to clients involved in the Dutch energy sector. Our lawyers are able to 'think outside the box' looking beyond the boundaries of their legal discipline to provide pro-active advice. We have developed a thorough competence in working together with tax, accountancy and financial experts.
